

LAST RITES AT HIS OLD HOME

Funeral Of The Late Head Of The Standard Oil Corporation Held This Afternoon.

THE WHOLE TOWN SHOWS GRIEF

Remains Laid In State Since This Morning---Notable Men Aoted As His Pall-Bearers At New York Church Service.

FAIR HAVEN, Mass., May 22.—Fair Haven, the birthplace of Henry H. Rogers, today paid final tribute to the memory of the deceased financier. From ten in the forenoon until three o'clock in the afternoon business was suspended and the body lay in state. Everywhere there was evidence of sincere grief of the townspeople.

Every unit of the industrial and commercial machinery of the Standard Oil company throughout the world halted in reverence on Friday while eulogies were being spoken and the last rites pronounced in the Church of the Messiah, in New York, over the remains.

The pall-bearers were Rogers' intimate friends and associates: William Rockefeller, John D. Archbold, E. T. Bedford, James A. Moffat, Samuel L. Clemens, E. H. Harriman, Raymond Dupuy, Elbert H. Gary, Melville E. Stone, John D. Ryan, James M. Beck, Charles A. Peabody, Dr. C. C. Rice, George W. Perkins, Col. A. G. Payne, and Gen. James Jordan.

After the funeral the family and about twenty-five friends accompanied the body to the Grand Central station, whence the funeral party proceeded to the ancestral home at Fair Haven, Mass., where the interment was made this afternoon.

During the day the townspeople paid special tribute to their departed fellow townsman, who never forgot them in the days of his prosperity. His funeral bier was flanked with flowers and a large number followed the funeral cortege to the grave.

The funeral services and interment was held at three o'clock this afternoon and the remains were laid at rest in the cemetery, followed by thousands, many of whom came from away to be present at the services.

BIG-GAME HUNTERS WILL BE LIMITED TO A SINGLE DEER

New Wisconsin Law Is Now Said To Be Certain Of Enactment--Debate On State Militia Pension Bill.

The new Wisconsin fish and game law is now certain of enactment. It cuts down from two to one the number of deer one hunter may kill; opens the game season on June 1st, places the state game warden and deputies under civil service and requires them to give bonds.

IMPORTANT CHANGES TO BE MADE IN LAW

Primary Measure Is Up For Reconsideration and General Overhauling.

MADISON, Wis., May 22.—Important changes will be made to the primary and general election laws of the state if the senate concurs in three bills which have been passed by the assembly. The Twentieth bill would secure a closed primary and prevent members of one political party voting in the primary of another party. The Thirtieth bill, which has also been passed by the assembly, delays the holding of the primary until the second week in September to obviate two holidays in the same week. At the present time with the primary held on the first Tuesday in September it is declared that many of the voters tired from the exertions of a Labor Day program the Monday before do not attend the primary. This bill would obviate this difficulty. The Dunn pocket ballot bill has also been passed. The measure, authored by Assemblyman McCann of La Crosse, if adopted by the county boards, will secure a secret ballot in the general elections.

To prevent one political party participating in the nomination of another party at the primary, the Twentieth bill provides that ballots shall be printed upon paper of a different tint or color from that upon which is printed the ballot of any other party. The secretary of state designates the color of the paper to be used by each party and it shall be uniform throughout the state.

A voter upon entering the booth asks for the ballot of a certain party, which shall be announced distinctly in the booth, with the question: "Are there any objections?" If the voter is challenged he shall subscribe to an oath that he will support the persons for which he intends to vote, if they are nominated in the primary. The one objection made to this bill on the floor of the assembly was by Assemblyman Ingram, who feared that it might disenfranchise the "ever increasing number of independent voters."

The Dunn pocket ballot may be adopted by county boards for use at general elections. Assemblyman Humberich declares that the adoption of this bill will work as great a good in the election districts of the country as the installation of the voting machine here in the city. As the ballot is designed "there will be no opportunity for fraudulent practices, one that may be counted rapidly and whereby a complete record will be kept in the tally sheets, showing how each ballot is counted. The voter is provided with an envelope of ballots so designed that he can quickly select the candidates for which he wishes to vote at the same time keeping a complete record of those candidates for which he does not wish to cast his ballot. WAS ENGINEER ON FIRST STEAM VESSEL

Charles Hawes Haswell, Born One Hundred Years Ago, Ran First Warship Of U. S.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 22.—In this year of notable centenaries it is not without interest to recall the fact that today is the 100th anniversary of the birth of Charles Hawes Haswell, who perhaps was more closely identified than any other person with the application of steam to the United States navy.

By reason of jealousy, ignorance and conservatism the fight for steam propulsion to the navy was one of desperation and had to be waged point by point. Congress in 1816 had authorized the construction of a steam vessel for the navy, but not until nearly the close of President Jackson's administration was the work begun which resulted in launching the U. S. steamship Fulton in 1817. It was during the construction of the Fulton that Mr. Haswell, a resident of New York, was appointed as her engineer and was thus the first to hold the position of engineer in the United States navy.

Mr. Haswell occupied an official position in the navy for fifteen years and through a period of wonderful activity in steam naval progress. In this time he designed the complete machinery for ten warships. He was the organizer of the engineer corps, and did more to overcome the prejudice against the introduction of steam power than any one else. Mr. Haswell lived to the ripe age of 88, his death having occurred only a little over two years ago.

WOULD MAKE FUR GARMENTS HERE

J. M. CUMMINGS OF DETROIT IS IN CONFERENCE HERE.

WITH LOCAL BUSINESS MEN

Projected Plant Would Be Capitalized at $100,000; Have an Output Worth $300,000 and Employ 100 Men.

J. M. Cummings, Jr., of Detroit, Mich., who is identified with the Worthington & Alger fur garment concern at Hillsdale, Mich., and who has had thirty years' experience in the business, is here consulting with local businessmen regarding a project to start a similar factory in Janesville. He wishes to organize with a capital of $100,000 and to enroll among his stockholders one or two good dry-goods merchants in each of the large cities in Wisconsin, northern Illinois, and Iowa. All of these merchants handle from $3,000 to $5,000 worth of fur goods each season and if they can be interested in the proposed factory a market for an annual output of $300,000 worth of goods can be created at the outset. For the cost of marketing the wares, which amounts to from 10 to 12 per cent, will be eliminated and subtracted from the list prices offered to the stockholders and this extra profit will furnish sufficient inducement to persuade them to buy their stock in Janesville and journey here once a year to make their purchases.

Mr. Cummings hopes to secure a $10,000 subscription of stock in the city where the plant is to be located, will not limit it to merchants in that particular town. He is very favorably impressed with Janesville and feels that the former Hudson's Bay & Echlin plant would admirably suit all needs. The raw pelts are purchased in the local, Chicago and New York, Japanese, and Australian markets and all the tanning and dyeing processes as well as the cutting and matching would be done in the local factory. All manner of hides from seal skin to muskrat would be in demand. The factory would employ 100 people at the outset and the dividends promised range from 25 to 40 per cent.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

"The dominion has had his in-laws during the past year or two and our duty is to hold revival meetings and convert him. We have been blessed with bounteous crops which have brought good prices all during the business depression; so the prosperous farmer already wears a smile. The man who makes a sad man smile is like the man who makes a blade of grass grow where none ever grew before. He is a public benefactor. Dan Bryant used to say, 'Money is the root of all evil, but O give me the root.' Money is a good help in promoting happiness, but is not absolutely necessary. Many a poor optimist is richer in contentment than many a multi-millionaire, who is a pessimist. Good digestion, good health, and a clear conscience are the usual traits of an optimist.

"During the past twenty years the anarchist, the populist, the prohibitionist, the silverite and the laborer have had their livings and have each preached a creed tinged with sorrow and dire foreboding. Now the optimists must study team work and prove the fallacy of all 'isms' that are founded on discontent. The trouble with most grumblers is that they constantly compare their conditions with those who have been more fortunate or 'wiser' than they have been. If they would look the other way they might find lots to be thankful for when they contemplate how much better off they are than thousands of their fellow creatures. The very poor are more apt to be comparatively contented and optimistic than some of the so-called middle class who are over-ambitious to attain an end that is beyond their powers; but the great mass of those in the middle class are the happiest people in our land.

"One discontented man can make more noise than a score of those who are contented—so let the laughter of those who are optimistic drown the groans of the pessimists and at the same time try to help the poorer and weaker to better their condition.

"The richest man in the world is not the man with the most money, but the one who gets the most real pleasure out of his savings, be they large or small. Put two boys at play—one arrayed in fine clothes and finer linen, and the other in overalls and bare feet. Which one will wear the smile at the close of the day? If the well-dressed boy is the son of any one you, watch him, or he will swap garments with the other fellow.

"Let us, the optimists, encourage men to remain young, instead of growing old and stale. It costs no more and pays better. As far as I am concerned, I am never going to be over forty-six and upwards, even if I have written a book on fifty years in Wall street. It makes me smile when I hear people speak of me as 'an old man' because I have a few birthdays, and that is one of my good reasons for being an optimist."

Henry Clows, the old New York banker, was recently invited to address the Optimist club of New York and the paragraphs quoted are from this address.

For more than half a century Mr. Clows has been a familiar figure on Wall street, sharing panic after panic, with ease of prosperity and nearing the end of the journey with the same hopeful optimistic outlook which has long characterized the man and made him a tower of strength in the financial world.

The weekly financial letters have been scattered broadcast to the press of the land for many years and while no effort has been made to conceal untoward conditions, the general tone of these messages always contains a tinge of brightness which has over-ruled a wholesome influence. Mr. Clows has talked much and written much on financial topics, and his judgment is seldom questioned, for he possesses a life experience envied by a reputation for honesty and hard common sense.

The problem suggested by the question, "When does a boy become a man?" has always been perplexing for the age when the boy reaches his majority and becomes a full-fledged citizen has long been recognized as simply a milestone at the road side, and expressing but little significance. Some boys mature young. A father drops out, and the heavy burden of responsibility falls on young shoulders with crushing weight, but the lad does not falter. A decade passes in a single night, and with set face and determined will he steps out into the new arena, a full-fledged man. Other boys, and their number is legion, never mature, and the result is a crop of half-baked men striving to make headway through life without the aid of a guardian, and meeting failure at every turn of the wheel.

The same sort of a problem is confronted as men approach the other end of the journey, where it is often difficult to maintain a foothold because of infirmities, and because of the sentiment which prevails concerning the age limit. Hunted stated, the question is: "When does a man cease to be a man and become a nonentity on the busy field of action?"

Railroads place the age limit of employment at 35 and the age for retirement at 65, and the unwritten law of all large corporations recognizes practically the same limitations. The older theory cuts down the retiring age five years, and many disciples believe that a man ought to be cremated at 60.

Be that as it may, there are some sad facts connected with the passing of time that can be studied to advantage, but which are all too frequently overlooked.

The notion has become popular by off-repeated statement that "a man is as old as he feels," and Mr. Clows is a shining example of men who are "70 years young." Every community contains a limited number of men who drink at the fountain of perpetual youth and smile at the encroachments of time, but these men usually represent the class who have provided for the last lap of the journey and are not dependent.

A much larger class, by far, is found in the ranks of men who have come up sharply against the barriers of limitation, and find themselves out of business, out of employment and out of resources at a time in life when accumulation is an impossibility, for preservation teaches that the man who is destitute at 50 will always be destitute.

Why it is that the great industrial world, as well as the business world, fails to recognize this fact is one of the unexplained mysteries.

One of the most pathetic sights in any large city is the little army of unemployed elderly men, seeking in vain for any occupation—bookkeepers, clerks, unsuccessful business men, who would find it difficult to earn $10 a week in any occupation.

These men have passed the age limit, with nothing in store for the days of enforced idleness, and just behind them is another generation equally careless, and soon to face the same problem.

Experience is supposed to be a good teacher, but the trouble is that the most of us wait for personal demonstration, cherishing the hope that in some way we may be immune from restrictions incident to limitations, a vain and foolish hope never realized.

Heart to Heart Talks.
By EDWIN A. NYE.
Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.

SOME PLAIN WORDS.
Representative Parsons of New York has introduced a bill to Congress providing for a department of the interior to be called the children's bureau.

The bureau is to investigate and report concerning the welfare of children and child life.

Thank goodness! Government is finally waking up to the fact that such matters as infant mortality, the birth rate, physical degeneracy, orphanage, juvenile courts, child desertion, illegitimacy, dangers and diseases of children of the poor—matters pertaining to the home and children—are as important as matters of finance and tariff.

Take a leaf from the juvenile court of Judge Lindsey of Denver, one of the best friends of childhood: "Almost every day some young criminal in my court says, 'The old man skipped out and left me to care for us.' Of sixty-five boys arrested for stealing brass from railroads two-thirds had been deserted by their fathers."

Note the heart cry of this Judge: "I am more interested in SAVING TIPOUSE BOYS who stole brass from the railroads than in REGULATION OF RAILROAD RATES."

The Judge is right. The real problems of government today are those of CHILD PETTUE. What avails law or economic prosperity if we go on rearing young criminals who break the law and hinder prosperity?

This is a hard saying, but it is true: Today more attention is paid by government to THE CIVILIZATION OF THE FILIPINOS than to the work of MAKING good MEN AND WOMEN in AMERICA.

Now—Every child in this republic deserves to have a decent and healthful environment, a good common school education and a fair chance to make himself a good citizen.

And—When society neglects to provide that much for the child and the child turns out badly it is THE FAULT OF SOCIETY.

"A REASON AND A RESULT"

It's a common thing to hear the Dental traveling men come into Dr. Richards' office and find him as busy as a man could be.

Say, "Well, Richards, I've been around to all the other dental offices today, and you are the only man I have found who is doing anything."

People are keeping him busy because he is doing.

Painless work at a reasonable price. There are a few people who rather pay $10.00 for gold crowns, because possibly they think they are getting better value thereby.

But the fact remains that Dr. Richards is putting out hundreds of gold crowns at exactly $5.00 each.

the Japanese after the Russo-Japan war, is the subject of a series of articles by C. V. Hibbard, written for the Gazette. Through his kindness the paper is also enabled to illustrate them with cuts from pictures to show conditions as they actually exist.

Mr. Hibbard is most enthusiastic over the prospects of the creation of a Y. M. C. A. building and building the work in this new country. He is in the east now with this idea in view and trusts to be able to raise the twenty-five thousand dollars needed so that work may be begun shortly. Later in the summer he returns to Japan and the work of the association. He writes under the caption, "Food for a Nation."

crowded provinces at the south, swarm over the border into Manchuria and find their toll to the subduing of the soil. With the new South Manchurian railway ready to bear their produce to the sea, these men find a ready market and easy prosperity. Year by year the mountains of grain and beans awaiting shipment mount higher and about the northern stations of the railway and the export figures of the customs go up by millions every year.

"Professor Parker, formerly of the University of Minnesota, has said: 'Should Manchuria ever be developed to its full possibilities, its products both in quantity and quality would be as famous in the world's markets as

LOCATION SURVEY TO START COMING WEEK

Chief Engineer Ellis To Resume His Field Work On Madison Interurban.

Chief Engineer Joseph Ellis of the Chicago and North Western Company announced that during the coming week he expects to begin his location survey for the Madison interurban. The question as to how the company will secure the entrance into Madison is not as yet decided but it is understood that it, being taken up with the owner of the Madison city line, by business men of the capital city who have insisted that he will have no difficulty in this respect.

QUARTER OF MILLION FOR IMPROVEMENTS

New Owners Of The Rockford Interurban Company Plan To Put This Sum In Their New Property.

Emil G. Schmidt, western representative and general manager of the Rockford & Interurban company, announced that about a quarter of a million dollars will at once be spent on improvements. Just what part of the property is to receive the benefit of this fund is not stated, but it is believed that the Janesville line will get its share.

"We intend to expend at least $250,000 in improving the system," said Mr. Schmidt. "The Chicago are sticklers for bringing their property up to the highest standard of efficiency, regardless of the cost. They have their own ideas and methods and the men who are under them must adjust themselves to these ideas. We think well of the system and intend to make it as nearly perfect as possible."

Mr. Schmidt stated that in all probability there would be no change in the present local management of the Rockford & Interurban company. The system will be under his direct control but he will continue to reside in Springfield, visiting this section as often as necessary. He says the syndicate has unlimited capital back of it and that the finest street railway system owned by it is at Portland, Ore.

They will play tomorrow with Briggs' nine.

MRS. TAFT MUST TAKE REST.

President Abandons a Trip Because of Her Condition.

Washington, May 22.—President Taft abandoned his trip to Hampton, Va., which had been planned for today because of the inability of Mrs. Taft to accompany him. The president was to have visited Hampton Institute, one of the foremost negro educational institutions in the south, and was to have delivered an address to the students.

When the president returned to Washington from Petersburg and Charlotte he was told that the attending physicians had ordered Mrs. Taft to take complete rest. Mrs. Taft was unable to preside at the third of her series of afternoon parties, and Mrs. Moore, sister of the president's wife, received the guests with the president in the east room.

KING COMPELS APOLOGY TO AMERICAN COUNTESS

Earl of Ronaldshay Sorry He Called Former Miss Mills a "Dumped Heiress."

London, May 22.—King Edward has compelled the earl of Ronaldshay to apologize to the countess of Granard, formerly Miss Beatrice Mills of New York, for calling her a "dumped American heiress who has been fortunate enough to secure a title."

Were it not for the American press and the American "millionaire" that luxurious circle of English society patronized by the king could not exist a month. So King Edward frowns on anything that might discourage English peers from marrying wealthy American women, or anything likely to render English society distasteful to American women.

Lord Ronaldshay, eldest son and heir of the marquis of Zetland, belongs to an influential family. Ronaldshay is the unionist member of the house of commons for the Hornsey division of Middlesex. Thither went the countess of Granard and opened a bazaar organized by Lord Ronaldshay's liberal opponent. The countess, who has been active on behalf of her husband's party, spent money lavishly at the bazaar, and consequently made a deep impression on the voters. Lord Ronaldshay, much irritated, made his insulting remarks about the countess speaking in a North London suburb.

D. Moffatt, president of the Washington and Jefferson college of Pittsburgh and by former Moderator Dr. B. P. Fullerton of St. Louis.

Clinton, Wis., May 21.—Mrs. F. Weaver of Darlen visited her daughter, Mrs. E. H. Tibbs here the first of the week.

James Howarth returned Thursday from Milwaukee, where he had been to see his sister, Margarette, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia. She has been instructed by her physician to live outdoors in a tent because of an infected lung, fearing tuberculosis.

Mrs. Samuel Morrell of Milwaukee spent Thursday here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Drake, and son, Charles McCombs.

Mrs. J. B. Monroe is getting along very satisfactorily at the hospital in Chicago and her family feels very much encouraged at her ultimate recovery.

Mrs. S. S. Jones and Dr. W. O. Thomas have the new buggy, Chester A. Smith will arrive Monday from Oakland, California, for an extended stay and to help his aunt, Mrs. H. W. Chesser.

Our people were very much surprised Friday morning when James Siskit announced that he would close out his harness and photographic business. He intends to quit the retail business altogether. It is sincerely hoped by all that we are not to lose this most excellent family, for they will be sadly missed in church, society and commercial life.

Gilbert Gilchrist, who has been compelled to use crutches all winter, was able to be out on Friday and got around very nicely by aid of a single cane. His host of friends are glad to see him improving, slowly though it is.

The Clinton Telephone Co. have hired a new manager to succeed Chas. A. Jacket, who has handed in his resignation to take effect Aug. 1. The new manager will move his family here about July 15th. Mr. Jacket has served the local company long and well, working up from doing common labor for the company. He has already started a draying and transfer line and will sell hay and straw.

Mrs. W. E. Ellithorn attended a wedding in Darlen Friday.

A carload of material and supplies arrived Friday for the Oregon Telephone company, a company of few farmers south of town and over the state line forming themselves into a neighborhood company. They will have no outside or long distance connection.

Otto Wollermann arrived here Friday to visit his parents and friends. He has not been here for several years.

Olson Johnson, who accompanied W. H. Dinkler to Texas, is home, arriving Friday noon. He says Wisconsin and especially Rock county looks like a Garden of Eden to him after spending a couple of months in that parched, sun-baked, dusty, wind-swept country.

Frank J. Barker will build a summer cottage on his lot at Delavan lake across this summer.

Mrs. Ole Gilchrist is very sick with erysipelas.

Alderman W. S. Thorn is putting a cement walk in front of his handsome residence in North Church street.

Dr. S. Smith is putting a handsome new veranda on two sides of his new corner church and Milwaukee streets, which add greatly to the beauty of the place.

More Men Than Women.
There are 1,340,230 more men than women in the United States, and the same proportion prevails in almost every other country. The only exception is in Paraguay, where there are more than twice as many women as men. This is due to the fact that some years ago, in a political revolution and a war with Brazil and the Argentine Republic, the men were almost exterminated.

Inexperienced Servants.
Some families grudge every penny paid out in wages. They will not give the sums justly demanded by good servants, so content themselves with raw recruits or inferior maids, who cost them pounds and pounds in the year for breakages, general destructiveness, and waste of food through bad cooking, and ignorance of how to handle scraps, not to mention the endless wear and tear to brain and nerve through the worry and discomfort they cause.

Asking Too Much.
Jonak (picking up the theater gets the wrong number)—"Can you let me have a box for four tonight?" Bones (the undertaker)—"I'm afraid not, sir. I only make 'em to hold one."—Tit-Bits.

MAY PROVE FATAL.

When Will Janesville People Learn the Importance of It?

Backache is only a simple thing at first;

But when you know 'tis from the kidneys;

That serious kidney troubles follow;

That diabetes, Bright's disease may be the fatal end.

You will gladly profit by the following experience.

'Tis the statement of a Janesville citizen.

Mrs. M. Smith, 359 Center St., Janesville, Wis., says: "I suffered severely at times from attacks of rheumatism and backache. My side also pained me and I noticed that the kidney secretions passed too frequently. A neighbor told me to try Dean's Kidney Pills and I went to the People's Drug Co. and procured a box. I began to feel better in a short time after commencing their use and the kidney secretions soon became clear and regular in passage. I gladly recommend Dean's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

DOING AN ERRAND.

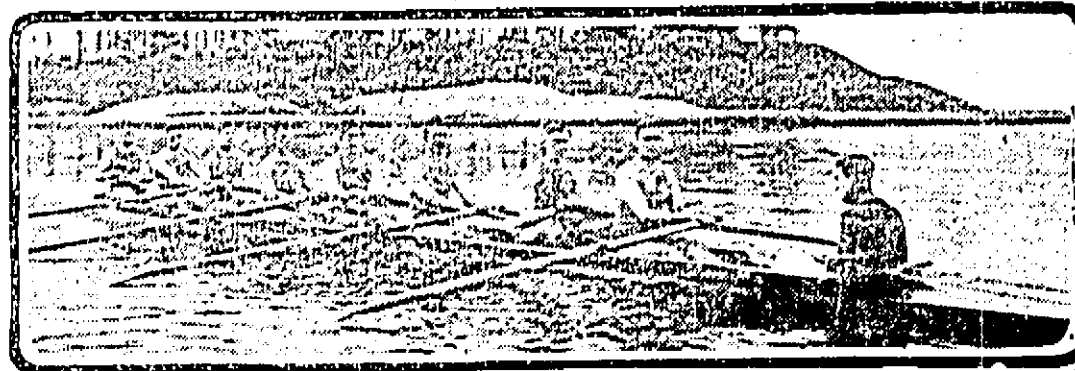

"About 10 years ago, when I was living in a village in Illinois," said the red-headed man, "I had business to call me to London. My getting ready for the trip was the talk of the place, and a day or two before I started I was visited by a farmer, who was an Englishman, and who said:

"If you are going to London, would you mind seeing my brother Tom over here to write a letter?"

"And here me if he didn't show me a letter ready for mailing and prove the case on the spot. He was the first man I had spoken to in London, and he was the Jim Smith I had been told to look out for."

This afternoon the Navy rowed its last race of the year, when it measured blades with the famous college champion crew from Syracuse university. It is said that Coach Jim Ten Eyck had given out that his varsity crew is the fastest one in its history, while it is a settled fact that the crew that Glendon had turned out for Navy is the fastest and best ever seen around the Naval academy. It's a great year for rowing at the academy, and the midshipmen are thoroughly aroused over the showing of the crews, and great regrets are expressed that they are not at Poughkeepsie this year.

THE PACIFIC COLONIES AT THE ALASKA-YUKON-PACIFIC SHOW.

The big Seattle Exposition, which opens June 1, will afford the United States the first real opportunity to become acquainted with its Pacific possessions. Alaska, of course, will be a premier feature of the big show and the Philippine Islands will be a close second. Hawaii is not to be forgotten. This picture gives a splendid idea of the building which the government has erected for the exclusive representation of the Hawaiian Islands. Complete exhibits from the former domain of Queen Liliouokalani will be collected. The Hawaiian Islands is one of the best on the grounds.

DIVIDING OF WAYS

In the course of every young man's and young lady's life there comes a "dividing of ways."

Graduation time is the dividing of ways for many, as they enter into business life, and right now is the time to consider this vital question.

Does a Business Education pay?

In answer we will say that it most assuredly does and that it gives larger and more prompt returns for the investment than any other kind of education. Of course, in making this statement, we have in mind modern, up-to-date, business training that thoroughly equips its possessor to perform in an intellectual manner the requirements of actual business, in other words, to take hold of practical affairs in an intelligent and business-like manner.

No stronger proof of the value of business education can be given than the fact that in every city possessing a high grade business college there are more business college graduates holding desirable positions and more business college graduates making a combined success than from all other schools combined.

The average cost to graduate from a single department in a high grade business school is not to exceed $150; $50 for tuition and supplies, $100 for board and lodging. The average salary offered competent beginners is $10 per month and a semi-annual increase of at least $5 is expected. The time required for a person possessing a common school education, say eighth grade, averages about six months. The average expense to graduate from a normal school is from three to four times as great as the expense of graduating from a business college. The average salary paid teachers in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa is less than $30 per month. The average time of employment less than nine months per year.

Which Profession Will You Choose?

The average cost of a professional education, medicine, law, or dentistry, is from $1,200 to $1,600 and necessitates from three to four years' preparation. The average earning capacity of doctors, lawyers and dentists after graduation is less than $1,000 per annum. The average salary paid bookkeepers or stenographers three years after graduation is $1,200 per annum. Of course, professional men eventually receive very large salaries, but no larger than those paid successful business men, and the percentage of business graduates who earn from $5,000 to $10,000 per annum is far greater than the percentage of professional men who earn an equal amount.

Stenographers and Bookkeepers Sure of Employment.

The young man or young woman who secures a business education and has no aspiration to be something more than a stenographer or bookkeeper, is at least sure of employment at good wages. It is, however, the ambitious young men and women who receive the greatest benefit, and to publish a list of the successful men in the United States who credit their success to business education would require, in fine print, more than a page of an average newspaper.

A Business Education Started These Men.

Among a few of the prominent men who started life as bookkeepers or stenographers may be mentioned Messrs. Cortelyou, Gates, Marshall Field and the McCormicks, ex-Secretary of State Lyman J. Gage, and of those who both privately and publicly commended business education whenever the opportunity presented, we find Abraham Lincoln, Andrew Carnegie, Thomas B. Reed and Chauncey M. Depew. Hundreds of other men of national reputation have on numerous occasions publicly championed the cause of business education. We believe it was Carnegie who stated that "the American business college is the only educational institution that exists upon its merits alone, that gives value received to its students and whose existence does not depend upon private or public charity and that had never been known to beg for assistance at church or legislative doors."

Business Education A Recognized Absolute Necessity.

The consensus of opinion is that business education does pay. There was a time when literary and classic institutions ridiculed business education, but the fact that Yale, Harvard, Columbia, Princeton, Wisconsin, and nearly every college and university in the United States, and recently, the public schools in nearly every important city, have incorporated a business course proves, but that even its old-time enemies have been forced to admit that it is an absolute necessity to young men who aspire to success in business life.

NOT ADVISABLE TO CUT DOWN ACREAGE

Advice Given Farmers to Cut Down

1000 Production 'Not Warranted'

by Facts.

Little credence is given by local to the statement of

T. E. Holmes of Clinton, who writing for the tobacco department of American Society of Equity, says that there is a supply of leaf in the hands of dealers and manufacturers sufficient to last two years and who advises farmers to cut down their acreage for 1939, so that the manufacture may have a chance to clean up their stocks. It is the opinion of Janesville dealers who base their judgment upon the facts and statistics given in different trade journals and upon their own observations, that there is not two years' supply of available tobacco on hand, and if conditions become settled, and the manufacturers know where they stand, it is doubtful if there will be enough available leaf for the independent concerns for one year. Twenty thousand cases of Wisconsin leaf is the estimate of one dealer. It is also ex-trême doubtful if any farmer will head Mr. Holmes' advice and cut down his 1939 crop. There is but little of the 1938 crop in the hands of the growers. In commenting on Mr.

Holmes' article, the Edgerton Reporter says:

"Just what basis Mr. Holmes has for his statement that there is an over-production of cigar leaf is hard to say, for statistics do not warrant

it. On the contrary, it is generally conceded that manufacturers are cur-rying smaller stocks than for ten years past and no one may be said of the tobacco and local packers, as well. Aside quantity of high-priced '06 leaf in Wisconsin packers' hands held at figures the trade has declined to pay for it, and is scarcely half the usual stock of '07 and '08 leaf held in the state for the independent trade to draw from, and the same is in a great measure true of other states. That the market for a year or more has been dull does not necessarily mean that there is a surplus of tobacco, but rather that manufacturers are carrying smaller stocks, buying from hand to mouth and adjusting their business to the financial conditions of the country. That the tobacco growers of Wisconsin are not better placed than those of their neighbors in other states for the '08 crop cannot be denied and that a ready market and the state is as well cleaned up as the average season, if the manufactured production should keep up

GOLF ENTICING TO A FORMER BALL PLAYER

John M. Ward Who Played With Old

Janesville Mutuals. Now Golf

Champion Contender.

In the news dispatches from Glen

Cove, N. Y., this morning, the defeat of John M. Ward, leading golfer of the Nassau Golf club, by Harry Legg of Minnesota, is noted. This is the same "Johnny" Ward who during the ball season of 1937 played in Janesville with the old Janesville Mutuals.

The man who pitched the local team to victory with Bushong behind the bat, with Bliss at short, James at center, Brooks at first, Worland at third, and Cantillon at left. This is the same Ward who was married

following winter in the Gazette office and later became the Janesville pitcher for the old Providence team, later becoming with the New York Yankees for many seasons as pitcher, holder, second base, and later as shortstop, captain and manager. It is the same ward who captained the "All American"

team which accompanied the famous

Chicago team in their tour of the world and later refused to be sold to Philadelphia for $15,000. He is now a prominent attorney in New York City and an enthusiast at golf.

He was seventeen years old when he pitched for the Janesville team, coming here from Pennsylvania, but Janesville men who know him in those days and have seen him since report he has a warm spot in his heart for the Bower City despite his years of absence. In reporting the golf game the sporting writer says as follows:

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

The idea that tombstones are the best monuments is rapidly passing.

And I am very glad of it.

I had with rejoicing every new example of the spirit that builds monuments in human lives and souls instead of in cemeteries.

When Memorial Day becomes a day on which we remember our dead by giving a bit of the happiness, we would like so very much to be able to give to them, to someone who has none too much happiness in life, it will register a forward step in civilization.

I know one woman who is going to celebrate Memorial Day in this beautiful spirit.

She had a little daughter during the past year.

Memorial Day, instead of keeping the little grave high with roses and all the most expensive bloom the florist can supply, she will first insist, she has decided to devote the money she would have spent in this way to taking her half dozen cripple children from the hospital near her residence, out into the country for one glorious day among the fields and flowers.

A young man in my circle who was very fond of children, died recently.

His close friends who knew of his fondness, instead of sending masses of flowers to make the home into a scented museum, put the money they would have spent thus into supporting a cot at the children's hospital for a year.

His family received far greater comfort from visiting the little inmates of

"Willa's cot" than they possibly could have from a houseful of and white roses and the other mournful flowers that people usually send to grief-stricken homes.

They say they feel their boy far nearer there by the cot dedicated to his memory than by his grave.

Another family, instead of erecting an expensive shaft for their child, marked his grave with a very simple stone and made his real monument a little drinking fountain for the dogs he loved so dearly.

"There is no flock however watched and tended

But one dead lamb is there;

There is no flocks however well defended,

But one vacant chair."

Doubtless everyone who reads this has some dear memory that will come back more poignantly on Memorial Day.

And if even but a few will honor that memory with the flowers of kindness as well as earth flowers, Monday, May 31, will see a happier world.

Nor will the happiness be only for those who receive,

but for those who give.
